

HER DUTY TO MALAYSIA

In 2009, MISC Group converted one of our vessels into a naval auxiliary vessel. Thus began the journey of Bunga Mas Lima as the first Royal Malaysian Navy auxiliary vessel and the start of MISC Group's strategic Total Defence partnership with our nation. Bunga Mas Lima's dedication and courage in keeping the seas safe for our nation's vessels has time and again deterred pirates from targeting our vessels.

In 2011 when one of our chemical tankers sent out a distress call at sea, it was Bunga Mas Lima who answered the call of duty. Commandeered by the Royal Malaysian Navy Special Forces, together with the Air Wing of the Royal Malaysian Navy and our MISC Royal Malaysian Navy Reservists, she led the rescue from the clutches of vicious pirates, with no casualties.

This is but a page from the valiant stories of Bunga Mas Lima, a hero to many who sail the seas as an occupation. Stationed at the Royal Malaysian Navy Eastern command base in East Malaysia, she remains proudly active in service of our nation, ensuring that the seas remain safe for our explorers.

This Malaysia Day, she's still looking out.

Selamat Hari Malaysia
